PRCR Team Member Gets Promotion

Garner Parks, Recreation and Cultural Resources (PRCR) is pleased to announce that Sara Shaw has been promoted to recreation specialist. Shaw worked part time with the department for the last three years as a recreation leader and facility attendant. She was selected from an applicant pool of over 60 qualified candidates.

Shaw is a 2011 graduate of North Carolina State University and has served as an elementary school teacher. Her roles with the Town of Garner have focused on preschool programming and summer camp. She was the assistant camp director this past year and has developed relationships with children and their parents.

“Sara brings a great deal of knowledge to this position. Many of the participants are familiar with Sara and have come to trust her over the last three years,” said Jack Baldwin, athletic, youth and teen program manager.

“With the new Indoor Recreation Center on the horizon, Sara is a welcomed addition to the Parks, Recreation and Cultural Resources team,” PRCR Director Sonya Shaw said.

Sara Shaw will be charged with creating programs and activities for the youth of the community. She will also help implement healthy eating and active living initiatives in this new role to support the John Rex Endowment grant the Town received last year. She will have an office at the Avery Street Recreation Center.
